

Summer sermon series filled with “Promises, promises”

Scripture is full of God’s “precious and very great promises” (2 Peter 1:4). There are many that are especially quoted and often “claimed.” This summer we’ll take a closer look at some of the most familiar Old Testament promises so we can better understand what they mean in their biblical, theological context and see how these promises—which find their “Yes!” in Christ (2 Cor. 1:20)—can genuinely encourage and guide us today. Promises like:

“I will never forsake you.” (Deut. 31:8)

“I will heal your land.” (2 Chron. 7:14)

“I will make your path straight.” (Prov. 3:5-6)

“They shall renew their strength.” (Isa. 40:31)

“No weapon formed against you shall prosper.” (Isa. 54:17)

“I will give you a future with hope.” (Jer. 29:11)

“I will pour out my spirit upon you.” (Joel 2:28)

And more. The summer will also give opportunity to hear some different voices in the pulpit, including Rev. Larry Sansoucie, Elder Jon Kopke, and Rev. Rich Jones (Northminster P.C.), and . . . stay tuned!

Help us redesign our website!

One of our hymns urges us,

*“Ye servants of God, your Master proclaim,
and publish abroad His wonderful name.”*

These days, we can do that literally through our church website!

NPC has had a full website for a while, thanks to the initiative and effort of Pat Callahan. But now it’s time to redesign so that we can update content more easily and make our website even more effective. And we need your input!

On Sunday, June 13, after worship, anyone who’s interested is invited to stay for brunch to “walk through” our website and talk through what works for you, and what doesn’t. Your feedback will be an important first step in helping us know how best to “publish abroad His wonderful name.”
